Stick size: SR

The FISCHER CT 850 SR is a lightweight hockey stick designed for senior players who are looking for a direct feel for the puck and a well-balanced shaft during practice and games. Weighing 425 grams, the stick remains pleasantly maneuverable, which is especially noticeable during quick shots and tight puck play.

- Technology: Responsive Hozel Technology (RHT)
 - Functionality: Enhanced energy transfer from the shaft to the Dual Foam Core blade during shots

Product information

- Feel: Light overall weight with balanced handling
- Blade: Dual Foam Core Blade for precise puck feel
- Weight: 425 g
- Curvature: 32, 5, 92
- Hardness: 85 or 95
- Model: SR, left or right, black

On the ice, the combination of low weight, balance, and blade feel really shines when the stick needs to react without delay. The RHT technology helps transfer the energy stored in the shaft to the blade, resulting in shots that feel crisp and direct. At the same time, the Dual Foam Core Blade helps guide the puck with control during reception, passing, and shooting. This model is therefore particularly suited for experienced club players and ambitious senior players looking for a lightweight stick with noticeable feedback.

When selecting a stick, pay attention to the correct blade orientation and your preferred stiffness—85 or 95.
