Product information

Color: black

Stick size: SR

The TRUE HZRDUS PX SR is a hockey stick designed for players who prioritize a particularly fast puck release when shooting and passing. Weighing 345 g, this model is one of the lightest sticks on the market and is clearly aimed at ambitious club players looking for a direct, responsive setup.

- Technology: RESFLO for significant weight reduction while maintaining a consistent laminate structure
- Shooting performance: optimized low kick point for quick release and easy loading
- Blade Construction: Tri Rib Tech with a tailored rib arrangement in the typical puck contact zones
- Feel: Stable blade on hard shots and one-timers
- Weight: 345 g
- Curvature: TC2 or TC4
- Hardness: 65, 75, 85, or 95
- Model: SR, black, left or right

On the ice, the lightweight construction is particularly noticeable when taking shots under time pressure or when you need to cleanly release the puck while in motion. The low kick point facilitates quick shaft loading, while the blade remains stable even during powerful shots. This design really shines during regular practice and in games, when speed and consistency matter most.

When selecting a stick, the most important factors are the appropriate stiffness, the desired bend (TC2 or TC4), and whether the blade is left- or right-handed.
