Product information

CCM TACKS XR SR shin guards are designed for performance-oriented hockey players who value a snug fit, reliable protection, and unrestricted movement during practice and games. The anatomical TACKS fit keeps the pads securely in place on the leg without unnecessarily restricting natural movement while skating, braking, or changing direction.

- Product Type: Shin guards for ice hockey
- Fit: Anatomical TACKS fit with a snug, body-hugging design
- Protection area: Shin and knee
- Knee cap: Reinforced to absorb impact forces
- Construction: Sturdy shin guard with a flexible design
- Comfort: Comfortable inner lining for extended use
- Adjustment: adjustable straps for a custom fit
- Size: SR

On the ice, this model's strength really shines when fast-paced action and direct contact come together. The sturdy coverage over the shin and knee provides support during shots, one-on-one battles, and after falls, while the flexible design ensures the pad doesn't feel unnecessarily heavy while skating. This balance is especially important during regular club practice, because a pad only truly works if it remains comfortable and stays securely in place even during longer sessions.

For a clean fit, the SR size should be matched to the rest of your protective gear and your leg length.
