Product information

CCM TACKS XR 80 SR shin guards are designed for senior players who are looking for reliable protection with a snug fit during practice and games, without unnecessarily compromising mobility. The anatomical TACKS fit hugs the leg closely and ensures a stable, secure feel during changes of direction, one-on-one battles, and blocked shots.

- Product Type: Shin guards for ice hockey
- Fit: Anatomical TACKS design with a snug fit
- Protection area: Shin and knee
- Knee cap: Reinforced design to absorb impact forces
- Padding: comfortable inner padding for a pleasant fit
- Adjustment: Adjustable straps for a personalized fit
- Intended use: Training and games
- Size: SR

In everyday club play, equipment that doesn't need constant adjustment is especially important. This is exactly where this model shines: The pads remain stable even during quick movements, while the padding ensures comfort during extended ice time. The robust construction is designed to withstand the typical stresses of ice hockey, such as falls, contact in the slot, or blocking low shots. This makes the model particularly suitable for players seeking a solid, reliable protective solution in the senior category.

For a proper fit, choose a size that ensures the knees and shins are fully covered within the designated protective areas.
