Protection size-1: SR

CCM TACKS XR PRO SR elbow pads are designed for performance-oriented hockey players who want a snug fit with plenty of freedom of movement during practice and games. The anatomical TACKS fit keeps the pads securely in place on the arm without unnecessarily restricting natural movement while skating, passing, and shooting.

- System: JDP elbow cup designed to redirect impact forces away from the joint
- Fit: Anatomical TACKS shape with a snug, stable fit
- Protection Area: Coverage for the elbow, forearm, and biceps
- Construction: Reinforced protective elements in the forearm and bicep areas
- Range of Motion: Flexible construction for unrestricted arm movement on the ice
- Inner lining: comfortable lining for a pleasant fit even during extended use
- Adjustment: adjustable straps for a personalized fit
- Size: SR, available in S, M, L, and XL

Especially in intense hockey, it's crucial that an elbow pad doesn't slip and moves with you during quick actions. This is exactly where this model shines: The protection stays close to the body, while the flexible construction doesn't restrict arm movement in typical game situations. The additional protection for the forearm and biceps is especially noticeable when play on the ice gets more physical or when hits and contact need to be absorbed cleanly.

For optimal performance, choose the SR size so that the elbow pad and straps fit snugly against the arm.
