Protection size-1: SR

GATOR ARMOR SP GA 10 SR is a shoulder protector designed for hockey use when noticeable protection is needed on the field or during practice, without unnecessarily restricting movement. The protector is worn like a vest and fastens at the front with Velcro, making it easy to put on and ensuring a secure fit.

- Product Type: Shoulder Protector
- Construction: Vest-style with front Velcro closure
- Protection Area: Shoulders, with additional foam protectors under the shoulder pads

Product information

- Functionality: Foam protectors reduce pressure and absorb sudden impacts
- Design: Optimized placement of protectors in key areas
- Range of motion: Balanced for protection and comfort, with minimal restriction of movement
- Model: SR
- Body protection sizes: S, M, L, XL

Especially for club players who train regularly and can't avoid close contact during games, it's crucial to have gear that offers protection beyond just what's on paper. Here, the well-thought-out design distributes the forces acting on the body more evenly across the relevant areas. This is particularly noticeable in the shoulder area, where additional padding is integrated. At the same time, the fit is designed so that movements on the ice feel less restricted, allowing players to stay focused during one-on-one battles and plays.

For a comfortable fit, choose the SR model in the appropriate body armor size, ranging from S to XL.
