Glove color: black

The TRUE CATALYST 9X5 SR in black is an ice hockey player's glove designed for ambitious senior players who want to combine a direct feel for the stick with reliable protection during regular practice and games. Especially during high-speed play and frequent puck contact, equipment that seamlessly combines mobility, climate comfort, and durability really makes a difference.

- Technology: THERMACOOL lining for temperature regulation and moisture-wicking
- Construction: lightweight premium nylon shell with durable PU reinforcements
- Feel: Designed for responsive handling and high mobility
- Protection: Sturdy construction for competitive-level hockey
- Intended Use: Training and games at the competitive and club levels
- Color: black
- Size: 13 inches, 14 inches, or 15 inches

On the ice, this model truly shines when your hands need to remain steady and controlled even under pressure. The THERMACOOL lining helps keep your hands dry, while the lightweight outer construction doesn't weigh your hands down unnecessarily. Added to this is a construction designed for durability that can withstand both grueling training sessions and intense competition. For club players looking for more than just a standard model, this offers a balanced combination of comfort, flexibility, and protection.

When choosing the right size, it's worth comparing it to your previous glove size in the adult range.
