The combination of a long shaft and a relatively soft flex supports a dynamic style of play with plenty of power in shots and noticeable feedback when receiving the ball. This setup really shines during structured indoor training, when passes need to be handled cleanly under pressure and shots need to be taken quickly. The round shaft offers a classic feel in the hand and suits many grip styles, making the transition to this stick in everyday club play straightforward. The MB blade contributes to an overall playful feel without artificially overcomplicating the stick's character.

When selecting a stick, in addition to length, the most important factor is choosing the correct blade orientation: left or right, depending on which side of the court you play on.
