Product information

The MCDAVID Patellar Tendon Strap 10.414.14 is ideal for hockey players who need to relieve pressure on the knee during quick bursts of speed, changes of direction, or repetitive stress during practice. This strap sits directly below the kneecap and provides targeted support to the patellar tendon area without covering a large portion of the joint.

- Product Type: Patellar Tendon Strap for the Knee
- Function: Targeted pressure relief in the area below the kneecap
- Feel during movement: snug fit with greater freedom of movement than a closed knee brace
- Intended use: Training, games, and athletic activities involving frequent stop-and-go movements
- Fit: Designed to fit directly over the patellar tendon area
- Adjustment: Can be individually positioned on the knee depending on the model

Especially in hockey, where a low stance, sprinting, and abrupt stops are part of everyday play, a slim solution is often more comfortable than a bulky knee support. The MCDAVID PATELLAR TENDON STRAP is low-profile under equipment and largely preserves mobility during play. For club players and ambitious training groups, this is particularly useful when targeted support is needed for the knee without making the brace unnecessarily bulky.

It's important to position it precisely directly under the kneecap so that the strap stays securely in place during everyday hockey play and can effectively fulfill its purpose.
