Especially at the senior level, a goalie's catching hand must move reliably in sync with their own movements. When dealing with rebounds, high shots, or quick shots from close range, it's crucial that the hand closes naturally and that the catching surface moves in harmony with the goalkeeper's motion. This model is therefore primarily aimed at goalies who are looking for a cohesive set of goalie gear for regular use and who value a clear classification within the TRUE-CATALYST line when making their selection.

An important factor in your selection is choosing the correct hand side: "Regular" corresponds to the version shown here.
